

The Program:

The SRISA Studio Monitor Art Residency provides the opportunity for young artists to continue developing their personal body of work while at the same time gaining valuable experience in a role of responsibility within an artistic, academic setting.

The recipient will be provided with full access to the SRISA studios (outside of scheduled class hours) which hosts state of the art printmaking, photography, book binding, fashion design, painting and drawing facilities. In addition, the recipient will have the option to take (1) SRISA course per term at no cost. The recipient will be invited to present an Artist in Residency Show of artwork completed during the residency towards the termination of the program.

In exchange for these opportunities, the recipient of the Studio Monitor Art Residency will be responsible for helping keep the main administrative and studio art campuses open in the evenings and over the weekends. The Monitor is responsible for opening and closing the school and monitoring the people that enter and leave the premises. Some monitors may be asked to assist in the studios, on housing check-in and during SRISA extra-curricular events. Monitors typically work 10-20 hours per week depending on the schedule, calendar and events. Schedules are assigned at the beginning of each month.

The Studio Monitor Art Residency is a one-year position beginning either with the Fall or Spring academic semesters. A limited number of residents will be selected each year.

Note: This is not a paid residency. Residents will be financially responsible for themselves during the program.

The Candidate:

The candidate must have received his or her Bachelors of Arts before the start of the residency.
